Address: 3975 Canyon Road, Lafayette

Asking price: $2.975 million

Description: The formality of Roaring Twenties architecture and 21st century expectations combine in this deftly appointed five-bedroom home near Briones Regional Park. Formal spaces like the living and dining rooms share the same roof as a great room and an abundance of indoor/outdoor living. French windows frame soothing views of a landscape stretching more than half an acre. Dacor, Viking, and Sub-Zero appliances outfit a kitchen punctuated by marble counters, a breakfast bar and an Omega Salvage sink. There are several spots for a home office in the home developed by Scott Cameron and myriad experts. Alderwood paneling finishes rooms throughout the meticulous design that includes both formal and informal staircases. An attached wing that includes a family room and office with a fireplace could become an au pair space. Visit www.3975CanyonRoad.com to learn more.

Don't miss: A captivating master suite. Skylights and a wood-burning fireplace warm the space, which includes a jetted tub and spacious stall shower in the adjoining bathroom.

Built: 2003

Square feet: 5,322
